

FAQ about the Author

When did you start writing?

Ten years ago I got the bug to tell stories. Over the next decade, I kept honing my craft, and the result of my work culminated in Tyrants and Traitors. Story craft, the art of storytelling, is one of my biggest passions, and I've devoted a large section of my blog, Story Craft 101, to discussing it. If it's something you're interested in, take a peek and then add to conversation. I'm excited for the opportunity to learn from each other!

*What was your inspiration for Tyrants and Traitors?*

David is one of the most fascinating historical figures in the past three thousands years. He went from shepherd to warrior, then from general to exile, and eventually became one of the most famous kings in all of history. Personally, his story always resonated deeply with me, and I wanted to find a way to share that passion with others. However, I appreciate his story is sacred to some, so my publisher and I chose to make some key name changes to not keep my retelling and the original story distinct.

Who are some of your favorite storytellers?

In no particular order: JK Rowling, C.S. Lewis, Jim Butcher, Robert Jordan, Joss Whedon, and Christopher Nolan.

Who is your...?

Publisher: Blue Ink Press

Editor: Sophie Thomas

Cover Designer: Greg Simanson

What's a little known fact about you?

I'm a decent salsa dancer.